PREFACE

In the early part of this century, Doctor Howard E. Enders started to collect the genealogical history of the descendants of Captain Philip Christian Enders, progenitor of the Enders Family of Dauphin County, Pennsylvania. He continued to collect such data throughout his life, and was bringing his work to a conclusion at the time of his death.

Doctor Enders recorded the data in microscopic handwriting on a card file, following the numbering system used in this history. The information was supplied by various members of the family and their friends, and was made available to the Enders Family Association by the children of Doctor Enders after his death. It was supplemented by information received during preparation of the manuscript when possible.

This volume places in permanent form the vast amount of data which was collected over many years. It was impossible to verify the accuracy of such a mass of information covering three centuries, ten generations, and twelve thousand descendants. Indulgence is requested for errors and omissions which seem inevitable in a work of this kind.

This is a family chronicle rather than an individual tree, giving a sketch of Captain Enders, a picture of the valley in which he settled, and brief educational, vocational, and military service notes as shown by Doctor Enders' records. There is little room for praise and none for censure. Grateful acknowledgement is extended to all who contributed to the preparation of this work, especially Sylvester William Baker whose efforts made the manuscript possible.

INTRODUCTION

Johann Philip Enders, known as PHILIP CHRISTIAN ENDERS, was born July 22, 1740 in Breunigweiler, District of Rockenhausen, Palatinate, Nassau, Germany. He was the son of John Conrad Enders and Maria Catherine Geissel, and one of a large family. After completing his education he entered the military service of his sovereign, Wilhelm Heinrich, Prince of Nassau, and participated in numerous battles of the Seven Years War. For distinctive service and soldierly qualities he was promoted to a captaincy in the elite Royal Household Guard, a commission he resigned on February 20, 1764.

May 13, 1764, he married Anna Apolonia Degen, born January 12, 1746, in Sippersfeld, District of Rockenhausen, Palatinate, Nassau, Germany. She was the daughter of John Conrad Degen and Susanne Elizabeth Hohmann.

On June 27, 1764, Philip and his bride, Anna, ages 26 and 18 respectively, left their homeland and embarked at Rotterdam, Holland, for their migration to America. They were accompanied by Philip's sister, Elizabeth Enders, and by Anna's brother, John Ludwig Degen. Incidentally, Elizabeth Enders later was married to Borius Fahnestock, and a published genealogy of that family is in print. They sailed on an English ship, the Jeneffer, Captain George Kerr in command, and a stop was made in Cowes, England, where additional emigrants embarked. The passenger list totaled 247, and of this number, 102 were of alien birth; that is, other than English. The Jeneffer arrived in Philadelphia on November 5, 1764.

At this time there was much agitation among the Colonists, because of the entry of large numbers of non-English imigrants. Alarmed by the possibility that these strange people with their foreign language and customs, might attempt to establish a state of their own, the Provincial Council was moved to adopt a resolution, requiring the Masters of all ships entering the port of Philadelphia with immigrants for the Colony, to prepare and submit, a "Captain's List", with the signatures of all alien males aged sixteen years and over. These lists, together with the signers, were assembled at the Court House, where the Authorities administered the Oath of Allegiance to the English Crown, and the Oath of Fidelity to the Proprietary of Pennsylvania. This unique procedure has provided the original signatures of many early pioneer settlers, and these lists are still preserved in the archives of the Commonwealth, and afford extraordinary interest to historians and descendents.

Innocent of the anxiety of the English Colonists and eager to proceed with his plans for the future, Philip Christian Enders settled temporarily in Germantown, a small village adjacent to Philadelphia. It seems that he was employed as a tailor. His two eldest children were born there, and one of them died and was buried in the vicinity. Colonial records indicate that he removed his family to Warwick Township, Lancaster County, about the year 1767 and remained there until 1788. Land records of that period reflect purchases of considerable property in the Upperpart of Dauphin County, and it is a reasonable assumption that Philip was acquiring land and preparing a frontier home during his sojourne in Lancaster. Twelve of Philip's fourteen children were born in Lancaster, even though some doubt surrounds the birth place of the last born child. The accepted date of birth is March 1788 and this being a rugged season of the year, it seems logical that the removal occured later in the season and this would effectively dispel the doubt that John Conrad was born in Lancaster. The 1782 tax list for the County is interesting because it shows that Philip had 54 acres, 2 horses, 2 cows and 0 negroes, all this in addition to his acquired land in Armstrong Valley. It further pointed out that this sturdy pioneer performed his own labors, and was no slave owner.

ARMSTRONG VALLEY lies in Northern Dauphin County. It is bounded by Berry's Mountain, Dividing Ridge, the Susquehanna River, and the table land of Broad Mountain. Its earliest settlers were Alexander Armstrong, who conducted a trading post at the mouth of Armstrong Creek, a family named English who lived near Berry's Mountain, and John Meetch. The time was about March 1752. There was a disreputable white character, named Simon Girty, who also inhabited the valley, after having been expelled from Sherman's Creek, Perry County, in 1749. Girty's Notch and Girty's Cave on the Perry County side, and Girty's Run on the Dauphin County side were named for him. After Simon Girty, Sr., died, three of his sons joined Indian Tribes. Simon Girty, Jr., joined the Senecas, who were forced westward by incoming settlers, and the ensuing trouble between these parties was largely provoked and pursued by Simon with relentless ferocity. Finally, he was declared a public enemy and a price placed upon his head. He fled to Michigan, thence to Canada, where he died in 1818. Some early records refer to this character as Gurdy. Army maps indicate Gurdy Run in Dauphin County.

The settlement of Armstrong Valley was extremely slow. The earliest settlers confined themselves to the lowlands along the river. For many years the interior was uninhabited. In 1756 Colonel William Clapham was ordered to build a fort at "Armstrongs". This fort was located a short distance above Halifax, where Armstrong Creek enters the Susquehanna River, and was called Fort Halifax. It was abandoned in 1763.

Philip Christian Enders acquired his first land grant in Armstrong Valley by warrant, dated March 27, 1770 or 1771, for 100 acres. This land was considered part of Pextenk or Peeksting, a Delaware Indian word meaning, "The place of springs", and Paxtang and Paxton are variations of this name. It was later called Upper Paxton, but early tax-lists designated the region north of Berry's Mountain as territory "Beyond the Mountains", due to its remoteness. When Philip arrived he found a small tribe of Indians adjoining his land. This village was called Raspberry Village. It was located on Beaver Creek, and on land now known as the Lentz farm. Incidentally, Beaver Creek is the stream flowing through the old homestead. These Indians were Delawares or Lenni-Lenapes, as they called themselves. They were usually called Susquehannas by the settlers. They were not related to the Shawnees, who occupied the flat lands near Carsonville. The Delawares had been desimated by smallpox and large numbers deserted the village, leaving behind only the aged and unfit. These, Philip found in a starving condition, and helped them until they finally departed. The date is uncertain, but early Colonial records indicate the year 1775. Philip's most urgent need, a log-cabin for his family, had evidently been built previous to their removal in 1788. Its location was slightly west of the Monument, in close proximity of the original family burial plot. When the family became settled in their frontier home, Philip's concern was directed toward clearing sufficient land for tillage. His land purchases were resumed and early records of land titles show that he was associated in deals with Ludwig Shellman and John Herman, otherwise known as John Harmon. In later years, Philip acquired the interests of these men, which extended his holdings from Armstrong Creek to the summit of Dividing Ridge, aggregating about 1400 acres.

Settlement in the area of Jackson Township proceeded slowly. Probably the first entire family to locate was that of John Schoop, later called Shoop, when he acquired a grant of 100 acres in Upper Small Valley on November 30, 1773. Less than five families were living within the township limits in the year 1788. Much of the land acquired by grant was held for speculative purposes by residents of Fort Hunter and vicinity. As late as 1835, the land bordering Berry's Mountain was called "Wilson Land". Even Dauphin County was without a postoffice until 1791, when the first was established in Harrisburg. Jackson Township, had its first postoffice established in 1854, (Enders) 45 years after Philip's death. This may account for the tradition that persists in Germany, that many years ago, an Enders went to America and was never heard of again and it was thought that he had been killed by Indians. Philip's frontier environment provided scarce means of communication with the outside world. However, some news or information reached the Homeland, because a recent search of the Breunigweiler Church records revealed that Elizabeth Enders had reported a rough passage to America, but that all had arrived safely.

After 1790 the settlers arrived in larger numbers and by 1795 the need of a church was obvious. Fortunately, the Valley had a pioneer minister living on a farm located between Elizabethville and Berrysburg, who was experienced in organizing Lutheran Churches. His name was Reverend Michael Enterline and he accepted the responsibility of organizing St. Peter's Church in 1795, and a log structure was erected in 1796. The year following witnessed the first class of Catachumens, with confirmation on the saturday before Whit-Sunday, and the first Communion was held the same day. The present structure is the third on the original site and is called, Fetterhoff's Church. The Enders Family contributed generously of their time, labor and material to the establishment and the maintenance of this pioneer church, and legend credits Philip with improving the choir, by adding his better than average voice.

The increasing number of settlers created a natural market for materials and services, items beyond their ability to produce. Philip sensed the need for lumber and established the first Saw-mill in Armstrong Valley. His educational background alerted him to the pressing need of book-learning and again he provided the means by teaching classes in his home. Philip had that indomitable spirit that characterized the Early Colonial Settlers and which contributed in large measure to the founding of a great nation.

1796 was a tragic year for Philip Christian Enders. His wife, Anna, died within a few months of his oldest son, John Philip. Both were buried in a plot, not far from the cabin door, and where he himself was laid to rest in 1809. This burial plot remains a family shrine, marked in honored memory by a splendid monument, erected by descendents.

In 1885 a group of fourth generation descendents assembled in the Enders Schoolhouse to discuss ways and means for correcting the neglect of their grand-parents' burial plot. The Enders Monumental Association was formed on June 5, 1885 for the purpose of purchasing the burial plot with a right-of-way to the nearest public road, and then to prepare the ground and erect a suitable memorial. The deed was negotiated and accepted on April 3, 1886 and the monument was then erected and completed on October 29, 1890. A dedication ceremony was held the following month, with two contemporary men of prominence officiating; one, the Reverend G. W. Enders, of York, Pa., a descendent of another branch of the Enders Family in Germany, and David Mumma, Esq., of Harrisburg, Pa. The elected officers of the Association were:

G. W. D. Enders,	(1-7-1-7)	President
Joseph Seiders,	(1-7-5-10)	Vice President
Dr. Levi J. Enders,	(1-7-5-14)	Secretary

Nelson Enders,	(1-7-1-9)	Trustee
Daniel Enders,	(1-7-5-12)	"
G. W. Enders Jr.,	(1-7-5-4)	"

The Association was reorganized in 1912 and it was generally agreed that a reunion of the Enders Clan would best promote a binding interest in its affairs. The first gathering was held on September 13, 1913 in a grove situated on the original estate, and close by the Memorial Monument. This reunion proved to be popular and has been continued annually, with some exceptions, especially during War Years. Encouraged by newly created interest, the Association decided to buy the grove and improve its facilities, so that it could serve as a permanent meeting place for all future events. The Association was incorporated on September 30, 1929 and became The Enders Family Association, Inc. Two classes of membership were instituted; one for lineal descendents which allowed voting privileges, and another for related members through marriage, with no voting privilege. The elected officers of the Association at the time of incorporation were:

Robert A. Enders,	(1-7-5-8-3)	President
Ira M. Helt,	(1-14-2-4-2)	Vice President
P. Byron Enders,	(1-14-2-7-1)	Secretary

The Enders Family Association, Inc., resolved to prepare and publish a family history, based on the data collected and assembled by the officers of the Association and with the cooperation of the descendents. This work has required painstaking and extensive research because of the widespread and farflung migration of the family members. Its preparation has covered a number of years and reflects the efforts of devoted labor. It has been arranged in comprehensive style and as correctly as possible for a work of this kind. This book has been prepared and offered to The Enders Descendents as a service of the Association and Its Officers in the year of 1959.

EXPLANATION

The numbering system used is intended to identify each individual. The arrangement of digits and their sequence denotes the relation of the particular individual within his or her immediate family, according to their date of birth. Generations are indicated by the position of each number, as

1	denotes the immigrant, Philip Christian Enders.
1-1	"	"	1st child of	"	"	"	named	John Henry
1-2	"	"	2nd "	"	"	"	"	John Philip
1-3	"	"	3rd "	"	"	"	"	Margaret Eva
1-7	"	"	7th "	"	"	"	"	John George
and so on thru a family,
1-14	being the 14th child of				"	"	"	" John Conrad

2nd. Example:

Number 1-7-2-3-6-4-1-3 breaks down thusly,

"	1	= Philip Christian Enders,
"	1-7	= John George Enders, 7th. child of Philip's,
"	1-7-2	= Mary Enders Wilbert, 2nd. child of John George,
"	1-7-2-3	= Henry Wilbert, 3rd. child of Mary Wilbert,
"	1-7-2-3-6	= Catherine Wilbert Ferron, 6th. child of Henry's,
"	1-7-2-3-6-4	= Jessica Ferron Hopple, 4th. child of Catherine's,
"	1-7-2-3-6-4-1	= Russell Dexter Hopple, 1st. child of Jessica's,
"	1-7-2-3-6-4-1-3	= Susan Hopple, 3rd. child of Russell's.

CHAPTER ONE

Fourteen children were born to Philip Christian Enders and his wife, Anna Degen Enders. Nine reached maturity and had families of their own and the following chapters treat each in order of their birth, down through the last known descendent. Five died in their infancy and this chapter comprises their brief life span.

(1-1) JOHN HENRY ENDERS, born 1765, in Germantown, Pennsylvania, and died the same year and was buried in the vicinity.

(1-5) AN INFANT SON, born 1771, in Warwick Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. Died at birth and was buried locally.

(1-8) AN INFANT SON, born 1776, in Warwick Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. Died at birth and was buried locally.

(1-11) SUSANNAH ENDERS, born February 12, 1781, in Warwick Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, and died the same year and was buried in the vicinity.

(1-13) AN INFANT SON, born January 11, 1785, in Warwick Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. Died at birth and was buried locally.

CHAPTER THREE

MARGARET EVA ENDERS (1-3) b. Apr. 21, 1768 in Warwick Township, Lancaster County, Pa.; d. about the year 1792 and supposedly buried with her second child in the family plot, under the Memorial Monument.

Much speculation about Margaret Eva, her life span and family, failed to bring out more than was established by G. W. D. Enders, in his data of Mar. 30, 1914, wherein he mentions that old Dauphin County History Records, stating that Margaret Eva died in infancy is incorrect. A family record, written in German, by Philip Christian Enders, states, "In the year 1790, 16th. April, there is a son born into the world to my daughter, Eva, and he has been given the name, at holy baptism, Daniel. His mother held him at the baptism." Another entry in the same record states, "In the year 1792, 20th, day of July, to my Eva, a son was born into the world and the name has been given at the holy baptism, John." This family record substantiates reasonably well that Margaret Eva married a man named Spangler, and had two sons.
